BLOOMING OF THE LILIES

Especially Flowers Are Out in All Their Majestic Splendor

A peep into a hot-house about this season shows a picture of marvelous beauty. Easter flowers, in all their majestic splendor and fragrance, greet you everywhere, and you begin to wonder if you are not really in fairyland or some celestial place instead of on this mundane sphere.

The study of floriculture is never so delightful as in springtime, and about Easter the zenith of the charm is reached. The florist who has nourished and guarded his slips and bulbs during the cold winter months experiences a keen sense of satisfaction when his plants burst forth in glorious bloom.

At this particular time the florist gives special attention to Easter lilies and roses. The demand for Easter lilies increases each year and has grown to such an extent that the cultivation of bulbs in Bermuda for shipment to America and European markets has become one of the principal industries of the island.

The Heart of Chicago.

It would be hard to get more scenery in a single production than is employed in staging "The Heart of Chicago" at the Lyceum. J. Carter's newest play. The Philadelphia Ledger of Nov. 10th said, "Enough scenery is used in its production to amply stock half a dozen melodramas." Among the scenes promised are the Chicago fire scenes, showing a section of Chicago, before, during and after the fire, Masonic Temple Roof Garden, the big panoramic view of the South side at night, the World's Fair Court of Honor during a night illumination, the Columbus fountain, the typical Chicago street scene and the famous approaching train scene.

The Body Embalmed

The body of Fred Haase, who died at the hospital from the injuries received on board of the schooner William K. Parks, has been taken to Undertaker Ham's rooms, where it was embalmed and will be held for a few days. A letter found in one of his pockets has given the authorities some clue that may result in finding some relative of the dead man. The letter was addressed to a young lady in Philadelphia and by the use of it led the authorities to believe that she might be well acquainted with Haase. The body will be held until she is communicated with.

Looks Like Manchester

The Manchester waist team of the Calumet club has defeated the Hunker team nineteen to ten. Five of the points lost by the Manchester men were lost by a misplay on one hand. This makes the fifth game won by the Manchester club, which will come into possession of the state trophy if it succeeds in defeating the Milford team this week. As the Milford club has always been considered the strongest team in the league, the outcome of the contest is awaited with considerable interest.

Throw Him Down Stairs

Saturday evening a well known young man drifted into a barber shop not far from Market square and made himself obnoxious both to the proprietor of the shop and his customers. The former stood it as long as possible and then threw the fellow down a flight of stairs. In the hurried descent the fellow's head came in contact with the stairs in such a manner as to cut a deep gash in his scalp. Dr. Towle was obliged to take several stitches in closing up the wound.

Dover Liquor Raids

(Special to the Herald.)

DOVER, April 4.—A continuation of the liquor raids recently inaugurated in this city was begun this morning. Marshal Fogarty and several officers served a number of warrants on dealers, sworn out by the same parties that prosecuted the previous cases. There is considerable excitement as a result and people are wondering where the prosecution will stop.

Marry Up Orders Received.

Captain Seth Hand of the steamer Charles F. Mayer, that arrived here Friday with a cargo of coal from Baltimore, received orders from the government on Saturday to have the steamer discharged as soon as possible and proceed at once to Baltimore where she will be used to carry coal to Key West in case of war.

Died at the Hospital

Mrs. Lucash A., wife of Henry J. Pershing of Hampton, died at the Cottage hospital in this city yesterday, aged 60 years 11 months and 20 days. D. ceased downward an operation a few days ago and was getting along fairly when inflammation set in which resulted in her death.

First of Sunday Talks

The first of the Sunday talks in April for young men was given in the U. V. C. hall yesterday under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. Mr. E. Scott Owen spoke on "The Young Man in Business." After defining the term business, he said: "It is an important question which confronts the young man as he stands on the threshold of life. Wisconsin is a noble and great responsibility rests upon those who are to advise him as to what his life work shall be. He often does to leave his home and the business of his father and launch out into an entirely new life. In America the young man has a broad field to choose from and is far more free than the young man of England, Russia or Germany where certain rules bind him down. The great question of what to confront him and must decide upon the solution. He must choose what he likes and what he is best fitted for. He must choose with a moral consideration in view, for a man becomes like his business. Let him select a useful, constructive and not destructive. No young man can afford to touch the liquor traffic with as much as the tip of his fingers.

The second is how? This is even greater than knowing what to do. First, he should be careful in choosing his employer, for he has it all to learn and both his employer and his work must be right. Then he must work for his employer's interest. He must spend his evening in a way that will contribute toward his progress, he must help to build up what is known as good will, he must study how to deal with customers, keep track of the business problems of the day. The speaker in closing referred to the little book "What Would Jesus do" and urged the value of a religious life in business and said the Golden Rule would go far toward making success. Miss Horn of Lynn rendered two violin solos during the service.

Concert Program

The last in the series of the Eastman orchestra concert will take place at Peirce hall on Tuesday evening next, instead of Monday evening, as previously announced. The following is the program:

- 1 Overture, Alessandro Stradella.
- 2 Soprano Solo, Arnie from "Le Cid," Massenet.
- 3 Violin Solo, "Theme Original" Op. 15 O. C. de Sclède, Wienawski.
- 4 Tenor Solo, "Angel at the Window," Toms.

Mr Geo W Horne

- 5 String Orchestra.
- 6 Intermission, "Forget-me-not," Macbeth.
- 7 Vocal Duets, "Dews of the Summer Night," Miss Barnabee and Mr Horne.
- 8 Violin Solo, Polonaise, F Lamb O. C. de Sclède.
- 9 Tio et Finale to Opera "Serenade," V Herbert.
- 10 Miss Barnabee, Messrs Horne and Gray, with Orchestra.

Bicycle Hits

There has been no preparations made as yet for a race meet to be held here Friday. The managers should get a move on.

Tickets for the Cycle club's minstrel show and dance are going like hot cakes and a big house is assured.

Not a chainless bicycle has been seen around our streets so far this season and it is extremely doubtful if there will be.

Portsmouth will be handicapped a little on the cycle track this season by the loss of two of our best men. Simpson is working in New York state and Newick expects to be away all summer playing ball. There are a number of you get men who will no doubt develop considerable speed if properly handled.

The Herald's Sonnets

The following unsolicited compliment from Ex-State Printer E. N. Pearson shows what the best judge in the state thinks of the HERALD's sonnets.

CITY SHIPS.

Alkon will continue to sell for the next three days, covered steaming pans for only 25c each; regular price 69c. Christy carrying set, 15c per set.

The hard pine lumber for the cappings to the wharf, and sills for the new yacht club house, to be erected on the Foundry wharf at the foot of Mechanic street, arrived on Saturday by the schooner Clara B. Kennard.

A confidence woman operated at the residence of one of Portsmouth's prominent families a few days ago and after accomplishing her end in part only, left town ostensibly for Portland. A lost pocket-book and Princeton college were transparent.

Cosmos Easter Ball and Concert

The ball and concert to be given by the Cosmos takes place at Philbrick hall on Monday, April 25th, 1898. The music orchestra of 14 pieces will render a grand concert from 8 to 9, dancing from 9 until 2. The order of dancing will be an innovation and has been declared by all to be the prettiest order ever seen in Portsmouth. Cafe open from 10 to 11:30. Dance supper at 10:30. Lemonade served all the evening. The Japanese decorations are to be a decided treat and will be exquisite as it is expected to be the dress event of the season. The floor is invitation only. Gallery will be open to the public at 25 cents. Tickets go on sale at Hoyt and Dow's at once. Arrangements are being perfected by the following well known citizens: J. W. Kelley, Dr. F. S. Towle, Dr. L. Pope, J. C. Simpson, G. D. Marey, H. E. Beynton, R. V. Leubrock, E. O. Sessions, G. B. Lord, J. W. Newell.

Navy Yard Notes.

George W. Healey, John E. Thompson, Walter G. Chandler, George W. Todd, George C. M. Smiley, Luther Thompson, John Sullivan, Robert Sperry and Clifford J. Trethen were required on the yard yesterday.

One of the new steam cutters was shipped from the navy yard today.

The clerks sent a handsome wreath to their fellow worker's funeral, James E. Chase.

Commander Rush U. S. N. of the Essex has returned from his trip down east in the interest of the naval militia.

James T. Berry is on the sick list.

Men anxious to enlist visit the yard daily.

Arrived and Departed

Arrived yesterday for J. A. and A. W. Work Being Rushed

Work has been rushed on the fortifications today, and the 8-inch guns at Fort Constitution will be ready for service this week. A large number of signal lanterns were hurriedly shipped from the navy yard to New York today and the work of preparing mines and torpedoes for the harbor is being pushed.

Received a Painful Wound

Lewis B. Hanson, who has been employed as a blacksmith at the navy yard, met with a painful accident on Friday. He was hammering a bar of steel when a piece struck him in the forehead, cutting a gash to the skull.

PRIZES IN JUNKSHOPS

OLD PIECES OF MAHOAGNY TO BE PICKED UP CHEAP.

Luck That Comes to the Buyer Who Knows How to Hunt For Old Furniture—Source of a Solid Mahogany Table and a Sideboard of the Same Material.

Here and there in the slums or in little frequented streets are the old metal and furniture shops where real bargains are to be had. That more real bargains do not come out of them is due to the fact of the junk known to few persons who appreciate their treasures.

What one finds in these shops is no better than the stock in the antique stores of reputation which are becoming common up town and line one avenue in particular, but it sells for fractional prices. The up town dealers know the value of their mahogany and brass, and they affix a price almost invariably well in advance of that value. Their supply is pretty regularly drawn from the same kind of source. Some men whose house is handsomely furnished die or fall or move away. Their household goods are sold at auction. Under the red flag great representatives of the various antique stores to buy whatever is good in massive furniture and old ornaments at prices averaging about one-third of the price which will be asked when the article is transferred to the shop. With the small, unknown store the case is quite different. Sometimes the dealer pays almost nothing and so can afford to sell for comparatively small prices. Sometimes he is himself ignorant of the value of his merchandise, and then his customer gathers in the dividend of superior knowledge. Again, his wares, particularly in the case of small goods, may have come to him through devious ways. Honestly always gets its heavy percentage in dealing with dishonesty.

On the edge of the negro quarter on the lower west side is a little shop that does a sort of hybrid business in old metals, wood and miscellaneous junk. Without ever getting into the police records it is still a place of occasional police surveillance. One of its customers, whose dealings with it are of the kind which do not interest the police, bought two years ago a very beautiful and massive mahogany table from the proprietor of the place. Recently he found out where the table came from.

"If you see anything good in mahogany or dining room tables, send it to the half breed Italian proprietor," hold it for me."

At that time there stood in one of the old alley courts on the west side a number of very old houses tenanted by the lowest class of Italians, the ragpickers. Of the original magnificence of the mansions one outward and visible sign remained—the enormous mahogany doors, with small, fancifully shaped window pillars at the side. Giovanni, the junk shop keeper, had noticed these doors, and he made arrangements which comprised two acquaintances of his, tenants of the house with the finest doors, an ax and a strong push cart. He himself was not concerned in the arrangements. The doors disappeared one night, also the window pillars, and two days later there were two Italian ragpickers in the police court charged with malicious mischief.

"What did you do with the doors?" asked the police justice.

"Burn 'em up," Firewood," said the men.

Owing to the ignorance of the prisoners, they got off with $10 fines. The doors, being cunningly planned down and joined, made a superb table. The window pillars, fitted with casters, made a set of effective legs, one at each corner, strong enough to excite the admiration of any collector, and Giovanni's customer was as glad to pay $75 for the result as Giovanni himself was to get it. To this same shop the Italian who sold old metal, too often acquired from junk shops, brings many a rare and fine old brass knocker or drawer handle.

Further over east, almost to the river front, is another shop, half curio, half junk, where amid much rubbish one occasionally finds something of worth. A shrewd, weathered old Irishman owns it, and to the question as to where he got any particular piece of property he gives always the answer.

"A very dear friend of me uncle's gave it him, me boy, and he gave it me."

In the regulation junkshops along the river front bargains may be occasionally found, although the chances are against it. A Brooklyn woman exhibits with great pride a piece of mahogany which she got in this way: Wandering stray from the ferry, she noticed through the window a curiously carved leg on what appeared to be a battered old chest of drawers of massive proportions. It occurred to her that nothing but mahogany would be carved in that way. Closer examination of the article was disappointing. It was covered with a dingy, cracked lacquer. Nevertheless the visitor went inside and asked for the price.

"Two dollars," said the proprietor in accents which would have told a purchaser of any experience that half the price would be accepted.

Merely as a speculation it seemed worth the money, which was paid down, with the order that the article be sent to a place where polishing and repairing is done.

"It's glad I am to get rid of it, lady," said the man. "Last year it was I got 75 cents for it at a auction, and I haven't had the whisp of an offer for it till today."

At the repair shop there was another side to the story. The expert scraped away the veneer in various places and sponged the wood underneath.

"Solid mahogany," was his verdict, "and as fine grain as I've ever seen. It will cost $30 to polish it and fix this front, and you'll have a sideboard to be proud of."

GOD'S LITTLE GIRL

She left her home in the starry ways And reached our arms in the April days. We thought to keep her and hold her here, And our little girl we called the dear.

One pleasant eve when the sun had slipped Out of sight, and the stars had shined dimly, She turned her face with a wistful gaze Up to the blue of the arching skies. We knew by the look in her pretty eyes And the smile that brightened her small face

It was time for God's little girl to go. A kiss we dropped on her curly head. "Good night, little heart, good night!" we said. Then untried, though the way was dim, God's little girl went back to him.

C. A. Herbert, Manager,

Granite Pile Cure Co., Concord, N. H.

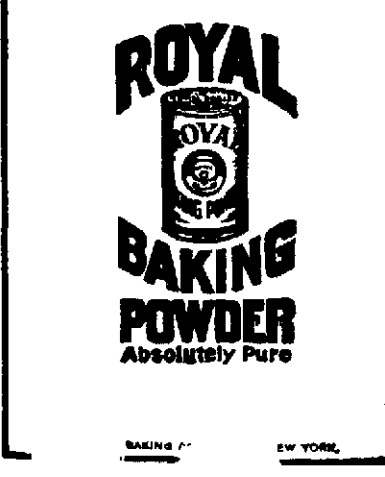

Dear Sir:—I have been a great sufferer from Piles for over 30 years, and a constant sufferer, never having only temporary relief. The pain has been very severe, and at times, using me up entirely. I have had the Protruding Piles, have tried every remedy and cure I ever heard of, have consulted doctors, all with the same effect, and I still had them with me; had practically given up of ever getting any relief until I read one of your little books. I wrote to you immediately, as I knew you very well. I commenced to use your cure as directed, and I felt the relief at once, and have continued to improve, and now, after using one cure and most another, I am well along to the completion of a permanent cure, am not troubled with protruding at all, and all inflammation has entirely gone. Your cure is perfect, so neat in application, and so sure in curing, that it is a pleasure to use it. I am very thankful that I need not suffer to try this cure; it will surely cure.

Yours with heartfelt thanks,

O. B. WARREN, City Marshal.

Fond Mother—Why, my pet, you should not strike your little brother that way.

Spilled Child—I will. If he touches my doll again, I'll break another chair over his head, so there!

Fond Mother—But, my dear, you know it isn't ladylike for little girls to—

Spilled Child—You get out! If you say another word, I'll tell the minister what you said about his wife's new dress.

Fond Mother (some years after)—My dear, it seems to me this engagement to Mr. Goodson is very sudden.

Spilled Daughter—There you go! I know you would. Always coming between me and my happiness. You can jaw your old head off, if you want to, but I'll marry him just the same.

Fond Mother—But, my dear, it may be that your disposition—

Spilled Daughter—If I can get along with such an unreasonable creature as you, I can get along with anybody. Now, just stop your chatter and see about supper. He'll be here tonight.

Fond Mother (two years afterward, to visitor)—Yes, it is too true, too true. Visitor—Also, your daughter and her husband have really separated?

Fond Mother—Yes, poor, stricken child, she came home last night. Oh, that she should ever have married such a brute! She was always so tender, so affectionate, so timid. Poor angel! He must have abused her terribly.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Dry Dock

Congressman Sulloway and Clarke are entitled to much credit for the successful passage of the dry dock appropriation through the house. The former gave much personal time to the movement in favor of the bill and when the hour for voting arrived they had enough votes pledged to insure success. Congressman Clarke gave the bill his hearty support and could not have done more had it been for his own town.

The committee on naval affairs considered the bill on Saturday and they voted to pass it without any change in the dry dock appropriation which settles the success of the new dock scheme.

FELL FROM TRAIN.

William Price Was Returning to Soldier's Home at Togus.

Found Alongside the Track at North Hampton, too Badly Hurt to be Moved

When the nine o'clock Pullman arrived at this depot last evening, Conductor Silbee reported that a man had fallen from the train somewhere between North Hampton and Greenland.

All that he knew about the matter was that an old soldier, who was somewhat intoxicated, had gone out on the platform of the smoker just after the train had left North Hampton. As he was pretty full a brakeman went out soon after to keep an eye on him and see that he did not fall off. Not finding him on the platform he went through the train and then reported to the conductor that the man had either fallen or jumped off the cars.

Word was at once telephoned back to a freight crew at Hampton to keep a sharp lookout along the track on their way in for a body. The freight crew arrived here but said they did not see any signs of an accident, although a sharp watch was kept up all the way in.

Early this morning word was sent in to this city that a man had been found lying beside the railroad track near the overhead bridge at North Hampton and had been taken to the house of a man named Drake. The man was badly injured and they expected him to die any minute.

The section crew from here received orders to bring him to this city if it was possible. They sent word back that it would be dangerous to move him and so he was left at the farm house where everything possible was being done for him. It was learned that his name was William Price, 62 years of age and that he belonged in Newburyport. Price is an old soldier and at the time of the accident was on his way to the soldier's home at Togus, Me.

Chase Home for Children

The annual report of the trustees for the Chase Home for Children shows at present fourteen inmates, ranging from 5 to 14 years in all. The home has come to be a necessity, as it provides for homeless children, and children whose parents cannot provide properly for them. The report shows the affairs of the home to be more favorable than ever before, and the permanent fund increased.

CITY BRIEFS.

Yesterday was Palm Sunday.

The Jones murder trial opened in Dover today.

The HERALD prints four pages of news every night.

Ladies and gents box calf shoes for $2.00 at Knights.

Last night's frost was rather dangerous to budding fruit trees.

Keep your ear to the ground; something is scheduled to drop today.

A good cigar is man's enjoyment. Next time try Dowd's Honest 10.

This is the last week of the present season of sackcloth and ashes.

The robins are keeping out of sight as much as possible this weather.

You can buy a high grade Spalding for only $50 cash. Woods, agent.

Will the March weather which has been predicted for this month come?

Yesterday was rather unpleasant for the wheelmen to take an outing.

The "new woman" ought to be found in the front rank of the volunteers.

The overland Klondikers leave for Seattle, Washington, on Wednesday.

The churches all held rehearsals for their Easter music yesterday afternoon.

Paisters commenced work on the exterior of Meacham's block this morning.

The heavy frost of last night will no doubt do much damage to the peach crop.

Eastman's orchestra is to furnish the music at the Easter Monday ball in Dover.

Ex-street commissioner Ridge has 500 yards of asphalt sidewalks to build at once.

Two good second-hand bicycles for sale cheap. William J. Cater, 2 Middle street.

It looks as if the weather man had got the twins mixed; this surely is March weather.

The Spanish torpedo flotilla seems to have earned the designation of being a "flying squadron."

The "S. G." Lendras is made of the choicest stock and is the best ten-cent cigar in the market.

Services are held at 7 o'clock each morning of Holy Week at the Church of Christ (Universalist.)

Right Rev. Bishop Niles is to visit St. John's church on Wednesday evening and administer confirmation.

Mr. Atwood Adams has sold his farm in Greenland through Tobey's real estate agency to Mr. Gilbert Hoyt.

Holy week has begun, and with it the most solemn six days in the church's year. Lenten observance never was so general in this country as now.

The South church clock went on a strike again last night and kept the natives awake for half an hour or more.

On account of the raw and chilly weather yesterday the churches were very poorly attended, especially last evening.

The HERALD prints the news on night; other papers the succeeding night. People who read say so. The people know.

Have your shoes repaired by John W. Mott, 34 Congress street. Satisfaction guaranteed. Hand-sewed work a specialty.

State Agent R. E. Hodgkins of the S. P. C. A., was called to Ossipee and Tamworth yesterday to investigate two cruelty to animal cases.

Palm branches were distributed on Palm Sunday not only at the Church of the Immaculate Conception but at Christ (Episcopal) church.

Addie Burritt Council, Daughters of Liberty, have an Easter sale and dance in Philbrick's banquet hall on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Ringling Bros. circus is coming east this season, and it is now expected that they will show in this city. It is the biggest show on the road.

Marshal Entwistle and Deputy Sheriff Collis were yesterday summoned by Deputy Sheriff McDaniel as witnesses in the Jones murder trial at Dover.

From all indications since April came in the weather clerk is responsible for a grave mistake the present year in giving us April for March and vice versa.

No wonder the HERALD's advertising columns are crowded with the announcements of Portsmouth's wide-awake merchants. It pays to advertise in the HERALD.

On Tuesday the Globe Grocery Co. will have a sale of ladies' spring hose, black and colors, 3 pair for 25 cents. They are always sold everywhere in Boston at 25c a pair.

Very seldom do you find such a bargain as George B. French will offer tomorrow, when 150 hair brushes worth from 65 cts to $1.50 will be sold. Customers to take their pick at 50 cents each.

The Portsmouth Brewing company has so far completed its new plant for the production of lager beer, that the first trial of brewing in the new porcelain vats was made last week. Everything is reported in good working order.

Councilman George H. Phinney, the host of the N. W. Hampshire division, League of American Wheelmen, ventures the prediction that the present membership in this state of 1100 will be increased to 2500 before the close of the year.

A Notable Wedding

Announcement is made that the wedding is to come on the evening of Thursday, April 21st, Miss M. Louise Sinclair, youngest daughter of Col. and Mrs. Charles Arthur Sinclair of this city and Brookline, Mass., and Mr. John C. Spring of Somerville, Mass.

The ceremony is to take place at the First Baptist church in Commonwealth avenue, Boston, and a large number of invitations will be issued for the happy event, together with the accompanying brilliant reception at the residence of the bride's parents on Kent street, Brookline.

The church and house are to be in elegant floral radiance. The bridal trip will be an extended one.

The above is the same church where the bride's sister, Martha Sophia,
